

BRER MARSH

I'm a local architect that has been a part of the Uptown Community for over ten years. My work on local infrastructure and civic buildings is at the very intersection of land use and planning. I look forward to helping guide future development in the neighborhood using my experience in this area. I'm also Design Director for the homeless assistance nonprofit, Quest for Kindness. As a lifelong cyclist and surfer, I want to see our city grow to be a greener place to live and provide more housing and transit options for our residents and visitors.
